

“What Is A Job Fair?”

Employers need good workers and workers need good jobs. A job fair brings employers and job hunters together, face to face.

If you attend a job fair, you could meet dozens of recruiters, all in one place, all in one day.

Job fairs are often held in large halls or auditoriums. Each employer has a table or booth staffed with its own recruiters. You can walk around and collect literature from each company. You can also ask questions and to the recruiters.
